

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image pickup apparatus has the capability of easily linking a stored image to another stored image. When an image is taken, link information indicating the linking relationship between the taken image and data to which the taken image is linked is generated. Also provided is a method of controlling such an image pickup apparatus and a storage medium storing a program according to which the image pickup apparatus is controlled.

09240721 124430